8:45-9:45: Session 1 - Carbon Markets: The Geometry of Competitiveness & IETA Mid-Year Stock Take

Led by IETA

In an increasingly multipolar world, competitiveness is becoming the organizing principle of climate action. As governments pursue industrial strategies, companies navigate new trade realities, and economies confront rising energy and compute demands, carbon markets are evolving from environmental instruments into platforms for investment, coordination, and economic advantage.

At the halfway point of 2026, this session will take stock of major developments across key global carbon markets and explore how these systems are adapting to a world of “variable geometry”.

Moderator: Katie Sullivan, Managing Director, IETA

Introductory Remarks: Mary Grady, Chaiman, IETA Council

Speakers:

- . Kevin Birn, Vice President, S&P Global Energy
- . Jean-Philippe Brisson, Partner Climate Change & Energy Transition Lead, Latham & Watkins
- . Audrey Goldstein, Director Carbon Markets Development, Standard Chartered Bank
- . Paul Zakkour, Founding Director, Carbon Counts

9:45-10:15: Networking Coffee Break

Hosted by Standard Chartered Bank
